

MAY RAISE EMBARGO ON ARMS TO MEXICO AND END REBELLION

REPORTED IN WASHINGTON THAT
WILSON WILL MAKE THIS ANNOUNCEMENT.

WILL HELP THE REBELS

Constitutionalists Need Heavy Field
Pieces to Fight the Federal Forces Successfully.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Feb. 3.—President Wilson has decided to lift the embargo on exportation of arms to Mexico. A proclamation under the authority of the congressional resolution of 1912 which will restore the status of the arms question to where both Huerta forces and constitutionalists may import arms from the United States soon will be issued from the White House.

Discretionary Powers.
There is every reason to believe that under the authority of the joint resolution of March 14, 1912, President Wilson will continue to exercise discretionary powers in issuing permits for the exportation of arms so that they may not fall into the hands of irresponsible persons. So far as possible only the military chiefs on both sides in the Mexican revolt will obtain permits to export arms, though exactly how that will be done has not yet been worked out.

Need Big Guns.
Officials here who have been in constant touch with the Mexican campaign say the constitutionalists have been at a great disadvantage because of the superior artillery of the Huerta army. From France and other European countries the Huerta government is said to have been importing 40 millimeter cannon of present type for the defense of the large cities through the open ports of the Atlantic and Pacific still under their control.

No Field Artillery.
The constitutionalists while plentifully supplied with small arms, ammunition and material for their rapid fire guns have been almost entirely without heavy artillery. They even have been put to the straits of manufacturing guns out of other machinery in the railroads and the shops of Chicago and Durango.

Superior artillery has enabled the Huerta forces to hold the large cities of the south.

Rumored on Streets.
News of the action to be taken by President Wilson became known today through sources which have been constantly advised of the administration policy in Mexico. It also became known that the subject had been discussed at the cabinet meeting today.

There were intimations that an official announcement of the administration's purpose would be coming from the White House later.

It is believed that President Wilson finally decided to raise the embargo after being convinced that by restricting shipments of arms to Mexico the United States was not really showing neutrality which was the purpose of the embargo, but was in fact showing partiality as the use of arms enabled the Huerta forces to hold the large cities of the south.

Superior artillery has enabled the Huerta forces to hold the large cities of the south.

President Taft issued the proclamation which barred the exportation of arms on March 14, 1912. He did so under the authority of the joint congressional resolution which empowered the president of the United States to take such action whenever he should find that "in any American country conditions of domestic violence exist which are promoted by the use of arms and munitions of war procured from the United States."

Mr. Taft's proclamation prohibiting the export was in part as follows: "I have found that there exists in Mexico such conditions of domestic violence promoted by the use of arms and munitions of war procured from the United States as contemplated by the said joint resolution and I hereby admonish all citizens of the United States and every person to abstain from every violation of the provisions of the joint resolution above set forth hereby made applicable to Mexico."

Wise Move.
Senator Hitchcock, one of the democrats of the foreign relations committee, when informed of the president's decision today said: "I think that lifting the embargo is the wisest thing to do. There is no question but what the embargo has been operating unfairly. Some members of the committee have been of the opinion that this course would be the better part of wisdom. They believe it will hasten an end to the Mexican conflict and lead sooner than otherwise to the establishment of peace. Of course the time has not yet come for this government to recognize the constitutionalists as belligerents."

Senator Borah of Idaho, who as far back as last August urged that the embargo be lifted, said that many of the members of the foreign relations committee had come to that same conclusion since that time.

"I believe that to raise the embargo is the only thing to do. I believe it will bring peace in Mexico much sooner than it could otherwise be done."

Rewey Man Is Again Chosen President of Agricultural Meeting—
Wilkinson of Bayfield Is Vice President.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Feb. 3.—O. G. Rewey, of Rewey, was re-elected president of the state board of agriculture at the annual meeting this afternoon.

A. E. Wilkinson of Bayfield was elected vice president. The salary of the secretary was fixed at $2,500 as at present. The board will probably elect J. E. McKenzie as secretary.

The delegation of north Wisconsin citizens is here to present to the board a proposal to hold the fair at a later date than is planned by the board at the present time.

POWER OF RAILROAD COMMISSION UPHELD
BY SUPREME COURT

Decision Against Northwestern Company Viciously Strengthens Position of Commission.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 3.—By affirming the decision of the lower court in the case of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company plaintiff and appellant against the railroad commission of Wisconsin, defendant and respondent, the Wisconsin supreme court sustained and strengthened in a vital way the powers and authority of the rate commission.

Questions at Issue.
Does the Wisconsin railroad commission law require that rate orders made by the commission be based on evidence produced at the hearing, or may the commission make an investigation on its own account and render its decision upon such outside inquiry? This question put to the supreme court in this appeal was regarded as one of the most vital to the life of the commission law.

The commission ordered the Northwestern road to reduce its rates on ice from Silver Springs to Milwaukee in an action brought by the Wisconsin Lakes Ice & Cartage Company. An application for a rehearing was denied by the commission. The company, appealing to the supreme court, challenged the validity of the order, declaring it is contrary to law, principally because the findings were not based upon evidence introduced in the case. It contended that if the legislative act does attempt to clothe the commission with authority to fix rates of carriers upon extraneous evidence, or ex parte investigations conducted by itself, the act itself is unconstitutional, denying the carrier the guarantees of due process and equal protection of law. The company's attorneys paid tribute to the "sincerity of purpose and spirit of fairness" of the Wisconsin commission, but directed its criticism to the system.

Aid From Other Lines.
The Soo and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul companies also filed briefs in support of the Northwestern's appeal, saying in part: "It is evident that a tribunal which is at liberty to controvert evidence produced by the parties by its own secret investigation is not one bound in such respect to what has been established."

The state argued that there was evidence upon the hearing ample to support of the commission's decision, that the company was not prejudiced by the hearing, that the commission's evidence and that the railroad commission law does not require or contemplate that the commission shall confine itself to consideration of the evidence upon the hearing. The procedure complained of has been followed since the commission was established.

The company asked the supreme court to reverse the lower court's order sustaining the commission's action.

Over Three Hundred Thousand Men
Out of Work in New York City—Hope For Relief.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Feb. 3.—Statistics gathered by the employment bureau of the city of New York showing that 331,000 men in New York City are out of work, furnished an interesting study today for employers and social economists. As a result of a canvass of manufacturers, contractors and merchants the bureau reported that present conditions were the worst since the winter of 1907 and 1908.

"Most of the employers feel, however," says the report, "that some relief is in sight and that a very few weeks of the return of normal business conditions."

Of the total unemployed 140,000 are unskilled laborers. The building trades come next with 70,000. Then follows longshoremen, 15,000; cloak and suit makers, 13,000; waiters, 13,000; tailors and pressers, 5,000; clerks, bookkeepers and accountants, 5,000; mechanics, 4,500; boatmen, bargemen and sailors, 4,200; barbers, 3,800; drivers, 3,000; engineers and firemen, 3,000; and other trades in smaller proportion.

The bureau acknowledged that these figures are only approximate.

LITTAUER BROTHERS SAY THEY SMUGGLED

Plead Guilty to Having Brought $40,000 in Jewels Into Country Illegally.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Feb. 3.—Lucius N. Littauer, a former congressman, and William Littauer, his brother, both of Groversville, N. Y., pleaded guilty in federal district court today to conspiracy to smuggle jewelry into this country. Sentence was suspended until tomorrow.

The Littauers in satisfaction of civil claims brought against them by the customs authorities, in connection with the smuggling, paid the government $14,000.

The brothers were indicted in January 27th on three counts. They were charged with attempting to evade the duty on a quantity of diamonds and pearls, and several other articles of jewelry valued at $40,000 and intended it was said, for William Littauer's wife. Lucius was accused of bringing the jewels into the country and William of receiving them.

The court's announcement that it would suspend sentence until tomorrow followed pleas by counsel for light punishment.

Superintendent Cary Deplores Fact That More Men Do Not Become Instructors.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 3.—State Superintendent C. P. Cary today took sharp issue with the statements of Rev. Adam of Freewill Baptist church to the effect that women teachers in the public schools of America have resulted in "feminized, emotional, illogical, and unbalanced" children. Mr. Cary deplores the fact that there are not more women teachers in the public schools, but believes that women will "always play a part as they should in the educational work."

"I think if one-half of the teaching force were men it might be better," said Mr. Cary. "Women are preeminently fitted to teach young children. After a child has reached the age of ten or twelve, however, and certainly beyond that, there should be a possibility of contact with men teachers. But there should not be men teachers only."

Mr. Cary thought that women teachers in the grades were preferable, but that there came a time in the life of the child when he should have an opportunity to see the man's side of the question. He said that a rule which persons are not to have emotional nature and does not acquire it in the schools.

Telegraph Company Leaders Answer Writs, And Will Face Federal Jury in Graft Charges Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Feb. 3.—In answer to subpoenas issued yesterday officials of the telegraph companies were prepared to testify before the federal grand jury which is investigating graft charges against federal officials in connection with the activities of Solomon Lewishohn, former private banker and professional bondman.

It was understood that the telegraph officials were to be asked to testify concerning the receipt of a purported cablegram from Jack Johnson the convicted negro pugilist who is now in France.

Books of the companies in the Chicago offices contain no record of the purported cablegram according to telegraph officials who were in conference yesterday with James H. Wilkerson, district attorney.

In the cablegram in question, Jack Johnson was quoted as saying he had spent $25,000 in entertaining two senators and officials connected with his case while he was in progress. Johnson also was quoted as saying he had given a cafe proprietor $20,000 in connection with his escape to France from the jurisdiction of the federal court.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Women registered today for the first time in Chicago preparatory to exercising their right of franchise at the spring aldermanic primaries.

Upwards of 200,000 women according to conservative estimates will have become registered voters by the time the books close at 9 o'clock tonight. Not less than 50,000 men who have changed their residences within the last year may have qualified according to estimates.

The previous Chicago registration was 437,346. Plus the expected women's registration and the additional registration for the year the total would exceed 687,000 compared with 669,152 the total of New York's last registration.

Mayor Carter H. Harrison, his wife, Mrs. Edith Ogden Harrison, and three household employees registered today in a polling place in a basement in Cary avenue, a short distance from their home in Sheridan Drive. Mrs. Harrison, without hesitation, declared her age to be 52, and the mayor acknowledged an additional year. All were sworn by a woman judge of election, Mrs. Mae L. Schultz.

VATICAN CONCEDES TEMPORAL CONTROL TO MAINTAIN PEACE

Final Settlement of "Roman Question" Made by Pope Pius—Admits Futility of Attempt.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Rome, Feb. 3.—Pope Pius has just surprised the entire Catholic world, and not a little bit of the international political as well, by what is conceded to be the most important step of his pontificate. This is nothing less than the admission that the Vatican is now willing to accept the condition imposed upon it for forty years when Italy deprived it of its temporal power by the confiscation of Rome and the Papal states. The Vatican does not renounce its claim to temporal power; it admits only the futility of hoping to regain it, but this admission is sufficient to permit the establishment of peace between the Quirinal and the Vatican. That such a peace will be brought about is now a practical certainty.

One of the most conspicuous things that will be gained by a settlement of the "Roman Question" will be the ending of the self-imposed imprisonment of the pontiffs. For forty years, no pope has ever been known to leave the walls of the Vatican. With the final settlement of the Roman question the new kingdom of Italy, Pope Pius IX, the then reigning pontiff, shut himself up in the Vatican.

He declared himself a prisoner there at the hands of the Italians whom he had robbed him of his temporal power and of his means for protecting his person should he ever issue forth. Pope Leo XIII, his immediate successor, continued this tradition. He went even farther in devoting practically his entire pontificate to the furthering of diplomatic relations and intrigues with all of the leading powers of the world.

He died with his dream unfulfilled and the tradition of imprisonment was handed down to Pope Pius X. No pope, however, has believed that the latter was in full sympathy with it, and now this belief has been justified.

Pope Pius, it now appears, has for ten years merely been awaiting the opportune moment, and preparing the change of policy which he believed to have always considered inevitable. The moment which he has finally chosen for announcing a change in attitude on the part of the Vatican has not been a bad one. It is a historic background. At the national congress of Catholics held at Milan in honor of the close of the Constantine year, Archbishop Rossi had declared that the Vatican had felt confident that members had shown the right attitude; ready and willing to subscribe stock to a worthy institution, but at the same time moving with caution and conservatism in order to encourage none but the reliable concerns.

Lane Reviews Year.
Secretary F. E. Lane covered comprehensively the various lines of work given attention in the last year. The review was given in the state and national legislation, notably in passing Mr. Parker to Washington in the interest of the development of Rock River valley to Sterling. The efforts were made to have a fair and honest election in the state and has concerned itself with problems of farm management and productivity. Along this line came the address to the club which would conduct in 1914 a growing contest similar to the one made by the Gazette last season, the members of the committee in charge being H. H. Bliss, Edward Amerphol and F. E. Lane.

The efforts of the club to locate the state fair in Janesville were commented upon.

Some twenty factory propositions investigated during the year were mentioned by Mr. Lane who referred to one proposed by which $71,000 was subscribed, as follows: "Rising $71,000 in Janesville for a factory demonstrated that we can raise the money for a manufacturing concern."

Sulzer Names Roosevelt As a Real Governor, Shouting That New York State is a Big Graft.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Albany, Feb. 3.—Former Governor Sulzer made his "misident" speech in the state assembly today in support of a motion to bring before the house the Schapp resolution for a statewide graft investigation.

"The whole atmosphere is saturated with graft, graft, graft," he shouted. "No man knows more of graft than I nor has any been a greater victim."

"There is no politics in graft. All crooks look alike to the taxpayer. I have no hesitancy in saying—and I know—that more than six million dollars of the taxpayers' money was stolen in highway construction in 1912. So with the canal so with other state departments—pillage runs into millions."

"We demand a state-wide probe. Let us separate the sheep from the goats. No with shame that men in highest positions are not straining every nerve to cover up crime and protect men who ought to be in prison. I am here as an independent. I owe no allegiance to any party. My purpose here is to tell the truth to tell some truths that will shame the people of this state so far as William Sulzer is concerned."

Mr. Sulzer referred vaguely to "someone" who he said "will take control of state affairs, January 1st next, and conduct them as they should be conducted."

At the conclusion of his remarks Sulzer was asked to whom he referred in connection with the next governorship.

"Roosevelt, of course," was the answer.

Superficial Investigations Are Curses of America Asserts Speaker at the Commercial Club Banquet.

Dr. William J. H. Boetcker of Toledo, speaker of the evening at the annual meeting of the Jamesville Commercial club at the Myers hotel Monday night, hit at the root of some of the vital problems of modern life and industry in his address which seemed to have been insight and forceful epigram flavored with abundant and witty anecdotes. Above all else he pleaded for the inauguration of an era of construction as opposed to the prevailing tendency of destruction.

He criticized the superficial reformers of the present day who turn society and industry upside down for their own selfish advancement, seeing only the surface conditions and failing to penetrate to the underlying causes; he distinguished between the successful man whose success was measured by his wealth of worldly goods and the one whose success is indicated by his ability to secure happiness through service; and finally he pointed to some of the legal, modern problems for the legal consumer's, laboring man's and employer's standpoints.

Employers Misunderstood.
His remarks as to the employer's side of the case were heard with deep appreciation and keen interest by the men present. "I believe that the employer of today is one of the most abused of men," said the speaker. "It must be understood in the first place that the employer is not the capitalist, but it is his function to borrow capital and make it productive along certain lines, bringing in contact with labor for the obtaining of the best results. Eighty percent of the employers started as employees and 96 percent of the employees are not capitalists. The employer worries the man who works the longer, and all the blame for failures, and in place of credit, abuse is heaped upon him."

"The employer is the man on the inside, handling capital on the one hand, and that it may be a safe investment, and labor on the other, in order that it may be productive, and that the workmen may live and prosper. The employer, sweating blood and brains, and the dignity of labor, and still there are those who are ready to hit him on the head when he is so busily engaged with these two great productive forces of the country that he has not the time or the chance to protect himself."

Labor's Best Friend.
"If this sort of thing continues the day will come when the employer can't stand it any longer and capital will return to its vaults valueless and labor will return to the streets unproductive. The employer is the most misunderstood of men and it is partly his own fault for he has forgotten, in the press of solving his urgent problems, that he must create a popular sentiment; he has been too busy employing and working in order that the results of capital and labor combined and co-related, may be achieved. The American people, however, are fair and I believe they will give you a fair deal. But as the jury they must be apprised of the facts and when they understand the conditions, then their verdict will be a square deal to all."

The best asset of the employer are men and women, clean and pure bodies. It is a safe investment for the business man to improve humanity. He must forget that there are three objects of education—the hand, the brain and the heart. Vast sums are spent in the schools for the teaching of industrial pursuits, intellects have been trained, but the heart has been neglected. And so we have that labor and its employer are estranged; men's hearts have been poisoned and that poison has been spread by agitators who are self-seeking. The workmen must learn that his employer is not his enemy, but his friend.

Need Constructive Work.
"It is time now to start an era of construction. Never mind men's mistakes; it's a matter of building up everything that's down and not tearing down everything that's up. The real solution must come from the inside for it's always easier to reach the outside from the inside."

Amid the present day reforms and incessant agitations in the realm of politics, economics, sociology and every other line of endeavor, and achievement which now boasts of its problem, the speaker had but one pertinent criticism: seek the cause and not the case; apply the rule of approximate causes; get on the inside and learn the true situation; work out your remedies accordingly.

The problems which are so widely discussed he likened to a disease which, in order to be treated, must be diagnosed correctly before the medicine which will cure can be successfully applied. It is a matter of fixing the machinery of the clock, and not fooling with the pendulum.

"We are pleased and curious with too many reforms," declared Dr. Boetcker. "We have had our white slavery investigations which have given out as their solution of this great evil the demand for their medicine in a week, a gross insult to the womanhood of America, to indirectly imply that the price of a woman's virtue is $2. Look out for the men who create a demand for their medicine in a week, a gross insult to the womanhood of America, to indirectly imply that the price of a woman's virtue is $2. Look out for the men who create a demand for their medicine in a week, a gross insult to the womanhood of America, to indirectly imply that the price of a woman's virtue is $2."

Talk of Square Deal.
"We talk of the square deal, and we find that there are four sides: the legal, the consumer's, laborer's and the employer's. For the legal it may be said that there are those who would correct every error by means of law. They would shorten the hours of labor for women in order to improve the condition of women. But it's not what they do when at work, but what they do when they don't work, that does the mischief."

"We are hearing today that the mothers' pension laws are failures and that they are boomerangs. Why is it? Because such laws tend to make men and women weak, instilling into them the idea that the world owes them a living. What we need to do is to make them strong to carry their own burdens, give them backbone. The more you do for men the less you can do with them."

"On the consumer's side you have the high cost of living. And what is this real problem on the inside? It is the problem not of high living, but of wrong living. The cost of wrong living in America is thirty billions of dollars a year. People are being wasted in two years in this country to solve every economic problem and provide every man with a home of his own. We spend from six to ten billions on theatrical amusements and motion picture shows. I do not wish to argue against amusements, for they are all right in their place, what I would say is that it is not the problem of the empty stomachs and the empty pocketbooks, but of the empty brains and the empty hearts."

The Side of Labor.
"Then there is the labor side. There are those who believe that actual manual labor produces all wealth. Labor reformers preach 'do less and get more,' but who pays the bill for such a thing? It is the individual who can make the people understand that they must pay the cost. In order for a laboring man to make a first class living he must give a first class life. The world does not owe you a living; it is not the problem of the unemployed, but of the unemployable."

Touching more especially on the work of organizations such as the Commercial club, Mr. Boetcker advised that whatever was done for the benefit of the city must benefit the individuals living in the city. He urged to avoid one mistake which is as old as Moses, and here he gave a graphic account of the heroic work and leadership of the emancipator of Israel, Moses, and his great achievement in leading the Hebrews out of the land of bondage toward the land of hope and promise. Everything went well, he pointed out, until one day the people rebelled against him and as a result the tribes of Israel wandered forty years in the wilderness and none of the persons who started out from Egypt ever saw the land of Canaan.

Individual Effort Counts.
Dr. Boetcker explained that in an organization such as a Commercial club it was necessary to work through the medium of committees. They must share and assume the responsibility, but the work must be done by individuals. The individuals must put their shoulders to the wheel and not be hampered by the other committee members who chew the rag and find fault. Put something into the work and you will get something in return. The speaker pointed out that it is your own fault if you fail to realize upon it. The speaker urged the members to support the officers of the club and to enter into the spirit of the association without malice or selfishness."

Dr. Boetcker's address was full of thought, inspiration and enlightenment. It touched upon many phases of modern problems but kept upmost throughout it all the necessity of getting at the underlying and fundamental causes of conditions as they exist, warning against the persons who would stir up a furor without first making a thorough analysis of the particular case to ascertain the real causes. Dr. Boetcker was heard with keen appreciation and marked attention and his address was given at the close of his speech.

It's Quite Needless. Nourish the Hair Roots—Remove Dandruff—Use Parisian Sage—

If your hair is getting thin, losing color, or has that matted, lifeless and scraggy appearance, the reason is evident—dandruff and failure to keep the hair roots properly nourished. Parisian Sage applied frequently for a week and then occasionally is all that is needed. It removes dandruff with one application; almost immediately stops falling hair and itching head; cleanses, cools and invigorates the scalp and makes dull stringy hair soft, abundant and radiant with life. Equally good for men, women or children—everyone needs it.

This refreshing hair tonic can be had at any drug or toilet counter in 50 cent bottles only. Smith Drug Co. always sell it with agreement to refund the money if you are not satisfied. Get a bottle at once. Delighted users say Parisian Sage is the best and most invigorating hair tonic made.

OUTLINES FEATURES OF TRADE EXTENSION

G. F. FINGER OF WISCONSIN RETAIL MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION GIVES ADDRESS.

POPULAR CONFIDENCE

Success of Community Advertising Must Rest on Public Sentiment and Individual Effort.

G. F. Finger of Fond du Lac, president of the Wisconsin Retail Grocers' and Merchants' association, who was the guest of the Commercial club last evening, gave an interesting and valuable address on the subject of community advertising and trade extension. He emphasized the importance of gaining the confidence of the people as well as their co-operation, and the necessity of consistent and thorough advertising campaigns.

"Community advertising," said Mr. Finger, "is of the broadest scope. It is done in a way to promote the welfare of a community as a whole, for then the benefits flowing therefrom accrue to the community as an entity, and to each element composing it. While trade extension might be conducted along lines in the interest of a portion of the people of a community, it might be sufficiently comprehensive to contemplate the purposes of community advertising. The use of this term will not inspire the same thought in the public mind, and therefore would be less apt to meet with public accord and support, both of which are necessary elements in popularizing a movement intended to promote the welfare of a community."

Need Popular Sentiment.
Community advertising and trade extension can be effectively combined and worked out together more economically than if promoted separately, was the speaker's contention, and he indicated the importance of directing all attempt toward improving business, civic, educational and social conditions on a basis of strong popular grounds.

"If a community is under any handicap that turns people from it," continued Mr. Finger, "the merchants ought to be the first to band themselves together to analyze the situation, and find a remedy though it costs money to do it, for in these days of intense competition, communities that lack in enterprise and in facilities to accommodate patrons, will suffer commercially, instead of going to the front."

"This brings us to a point where trade extension is brought in as a test of the commercial utility and advantage of all that is done."

Urges Liberal Advertising.
"The individual merchant, however, should not rely wholly upon what is done in a general way to attract attention to the community, and his corporation must be in the direction of offering concrete reasons for the appeal for a broader patronage."

"A campaign for trade extension necessarily implies a policy of liberal advertising by retail merchants, otherwise the appeal for a larger community life will lack permanent drawing power."

"To turn the tide of buying habit from channels in which it has been running, will require positive inducements, persistently applied; making it clear to the wider circle of patrons, that it will pay them to patronize dealers in the larger home community."

"The general community advertising will contribute materially in promoting the individual's business, but sympathy and co-operation must go hand in hand, if permanent results to Individual Effort.

"Retailers must not rely wholly on the eloquence of the picture held up as a reason for the larger public entering its thoughts on the community, no matter how inviting it may be, for the dollars and cents equation will be an influential factor in the minds of immediate and farther removed prospective patrons."

"Call your attention to this latter phase, because I deem it essential for the individual to become a force in any effort that is made, in the advancement of a community or in the direction of trade extension, for no matter how well planned or how efficiently carried out by faithful officers, success will not be the reward, unless whatever is attempted is fortified by the active support and co-operation of the individual merchants."

Milwaukee Man Talks.
M. Slattery of Milwaukee, secretary of the state association, was present and gave an address on some of the work which the organization aims in the way of protecting the members from unjust and damaging legislation both in state and nation. In this connection it was pointed out how difficult it is, oftentimes, to secure an effective hearing at Madison as state laws are so strict as to prevent anything except a short appearance before a committee of four or five members of the legislature. Nevertheless the association had accomplished much in defeating harmful legislation and had also fostered laws which were deemed advisable, some of which were pointed out by Mr. Slattery. He urged individual effort on the part of retailers taking up matters with their home representatives and keeping posted on the progress of affairs in which they are vitally concerned.

Mr. Slattery complimented the Jamesville club on its flourishing condition and especially remarked upon the success and activity of the local retailers division.

Soda For Gas, Acid Stomach or Indigestion

Gas, Gas, Gas—When everything eaten turns to gas and we eructate sour food and acid fluids it means we are troubled with acidity, says a noted authority. An excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach starts food fermentation and prevents complete digestion. Then our meals sour in the stomach like garbage in a can, forming gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon, causing a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, belch gas, have sour risings, heart burn, flatulence, waterbrash and nausea.

He tells us to put aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy a package of 10 grain Soda tablets and take one tablet any time followed by a tumbler of water which will instantly neutralize acidity; stop fermentation, absorb the gases and sweeten the entire digestive tract.

He further states that those men and women troubled with chronic acidity and its resulting indigestion, Sourness and Gases should take one 10 grain Soda tablet regularly after meals for a period as this attack is entirely harmless, being composed of Soda, Magnesia and Calcium Carbonate U. S. P.

Frankie Fleming, Canadian featherweight champ, is hit on the trail of Johnny Kilbane. He is challenging Johnny for the world's featherweight title and is real earnest about it. Fleming recently knocked out Young Joseph, also a fighter, in the third round of a Montreal bout. He seems to be the first person heard from for some time who is really anxious to fight the Cleveland speed king.

Tommy Burns, having lost interest in the idea of boxing, G. H. Smith has turned promoter. Word comes that Tommy is making arrangements to stage a fight between Smith and Jack (Lil' Artha) Johnson in California the latter part of the year. Speculation is in order as to whether Jack would care to return to the land of his birth and run a chance of being thrust into the battle. At the time of his departure for other lands he was heavily unfavored by bookies and betters.

down in Australia. Upon arriving there he beat Hughie McEgan, the Australian lightweight champ, in neat and decisive manner, and then for want of anything else to do took on Harry Stone, an American welterweight. Stone won the decision against Brown, although a draw would have been better judgment, declares many who saw the fracas. Pal forced the fighting throughout the twenty rounds. Brown will probably be matched with Johnny Summers before he returns to the States some time in the spring.

CHURCH LEAGUE PLAN JOINT MEETING SOON

Will Decide Upon Age Limit for Basketball—Two More Denominations Elect Captains.

Plans are being formulated for a joint meeting to be held this week, if possible, of all those interested in the new proposal of having a church basketball and athletic league. Each church is required or is being asked to elect a director to take charge in his respective church denomination and to be present at the meetings, at which time laws and regulations for the running of the league on a correct basis, and for the making of a schedule of games to be played this season, will be drawn up.

Two more churches have selected their captains and the teams have been informally picked. Harley Badger leads the Baptist aggregation, while Garnett McVicar will captain the Presbyterians during the coming season. Other churches are expected to report soon.

There is much discussion relative to the age limit for playing. Old and experienced players should be barred, is the stringent opinion of the various captains, and consequently an age limit may be reached at the coming meeting.

The use of the Y. M. C. A. gym for playing off some of the contests has been obtained from Secretary Kline, providing arrangements can be made, which will not conflict with the various regular classes. Also, the high school gymnasium will be the scene of games on Friday afternoon at four o'clock.

The Methodist church expects to do great things on the floor after they have carefully selected their quintet. Every church will be represented by strong fives, and it will not be difficult to arouse enough interest to keep the league's fire glowing most of the time. High school regulars and substitutes are eliminated from participating in the proposed matches. Also are outsiders who might be drafted by a Sunday school for the purpose of strengthening the chances for a victory. A certain restriction regarding the church members themselves will be made. An announcement of the proposed meeting will be given later.

HIGH SCHOOL FIVE TO MEET EDGERTON

Tobacco City Boys Are Placed On Schedule For This Week—Locals To Have A Hard Time.

Janesville High School basketball quintet of the latter's basketball floor Friday evening of this week. This contest was arranged Saturday, and was definitely decided upon the first of this week.

There is no other way out of it, the locals are going to have a tough proposition with the Tobacco City squad. And that means some good hard practice for this week. The Edgerton bunch have defeated Broadhead, by a 58 to 6 score, and Stoughton by a double count, this year. Both games were played on the Edgerton floor. On the other hand Janesville trimmed Stoughton on their own floor, by a 47 to 22 count. Janesville are favored in the betting by 2 to 1.

Captain Hemming of the locals is going to have great opposition in McIntosh at center, is the rumor from the Tobacco City camp. McIntosh is a tower of strength in his position, and is a man of experience, having played on the Edgerton quintet for the past three seasons with remarkable success. Hemming, it is thought, will have to show tremendous speed, when he faces this opponent. He played half steady against Jerdee, the Stoughton man, and caged eleven rings. In fact, Hemming has outplayed his man in every contest, since he began work two seasons ago with the local high school quintet, so there is little fear but what he can dispose of this man in the same way. The accommodations do not favor the students going to witness the struggle. There is no way of getting back to this city the same night. There is some talk, however, of scheduling a

JANESVILLE BOWLERS ROLL AT TOURNAMENT

Miller's Five Perform in Five Men Entry This Afternoon—Singles and Doubles Tomorrow.

About twenty bowling fans of this city are expected to witness the Janesville Miller's team performance at the state bowling tournament which is being held at Madison. Miller's five will bowl under the five men entries between the hours of nine-thirty and eleven tonight. This schedule gives the fans an excellent chance for train accommodations.

Tomorrow the team will split and bowl in the doubles and all the team with the exception of Merrick will roll in the individual events. The bowlers, Neighbors, Cook, Osborn, Merrick and Abraham, are expected to make a showing as their score against the Rockford Lewis-Branch team demonstrated that they could better a twenty-five hundred game which will land them with the melon cutters. The highest five men team so far at the tournament is the team from Madison, with a total of 2,559.

Jacobson Praises Lane. A Jacobson, who has been in Janesville for several months for the purpose of organizing the retailers, and who is a national organizer in this line, was called upon for remarks. He declared that Dr. Boetker had said everything there was to be said and that if he could have his wish it would be that the address of Dr. Boetker could be published and distributed to every retailer, every business man in the length and breadth of the whole country.

Mr. Jacobson touched briefly on the success of the retailers' organizations and declared that it was now time for the much abused middle man to rise up and defend himself from the mountains of calumny which have been heaped upon him. Mr. Jacobson took occasion to refer to the work of Secretary Lane in the most complimentary terms. He commended his energy, his spirit, his forceful courage and his untiring efforts. He urged greater cooperation on the part of the clubmembers.

FIREMEN'S BALL IS WONDERFUL SUCCESS

Annual Party Proves to be the Greatest Social Event of the Year at Edgerton.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Edgerton, Feb. 3.—What can safely be said the most important event of the season in Edgerton took place last night in Academy hall, being the twenty-ninth annual ball of the Edgerton fire department. The hall was tastefully decorated with flags and bunting and presented a fine appearance. The event opened with a concert by the Hatch orchestra of Janesville, who rendered a most pleasing musical program from 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock, after which dancing followed and continued until one o'clock. The floor committee consisted of Frank A. Ash, George Ogden, J. A. Dickerson and F. Gesert, and the reception committee was composed of the fire department. The attendance was the largest for many years, also the receipts as well. All in all it was a complete success, both socially and financially.

Hotel Arrivals. Guests registered at the Carlton hotel yesterday were: Frank A. Loetz, Jefferson, La. Persons, Sparte, S. N. Reind, H. Williams, Otto Scholtz, Madison; N. Thomas, Oshkosh; C. C. Stone, La Crosse; R. Schweiger, C. H. Rauser, H. B. Wagner, H. C. Musser, R. E. Webster, Milwaukee; L. Reasler, Aurora, Ill.; W. H. Pier, Flint, Mich.; William J. McGovern, Minneapolis; C. L. Putnam, Rockford; A. B. James, Quincy, Ill.; M. M. Meyer, P. K. Manning, E. Padec, Ed. Coddington, J. B. Somerville, Fred F. Law, Chicago.

Frank Banker returned Monday afternoon from a visit with relatives in Janesville and Beloit of a number of days.

Otto Dahlman spent yesterday in Stoughton on business.

Miss Rose Harrington returned to Whitewater this morning to resume her studies in the state normal school thereafter spending a few days at home.

Frank Malbon of Janesville was a business caller here yesterday.

Amusements

At the Apollo. Gehan and Ryder, a couple of good singers, found much favor with the Apollo audience last night, pleasing everyone. They have a high class act that is costumed properly and their voices blend in a harmonious effect.

Hyans and Victoria put on a comedy sketch called "200 Wives" which was rather amusing and brought several laughs.

Wessner and Peeser are black and tan singers and dancers. They start out to erase wrinkles of worry from the faces of the audience and are fairly successful.

Tonight the six reel motion picture feature by Augustus Thomas, "Arizona." This play was a big success on the stage and has made a big hit in motion pictures. On account of its length the show at all performances today will start at least one half hour earlier.

IGNORANT OR HUMORIST.

Considerable interest has been displayed throughout the country in the proposed plan of Postmaster General Burleson for the government ownership of all telephone and telegraph services in the United States. There is considerable difference of opinion on the subject and much criticism of the proposed plan. However, the Chicago Inter Ocean takes the matter up in a different light and asks, "Is Mr. Burleson ignorant or a humorist?" And then goes on to make good its assertion with the following passage from his address to congress on the subject.

"According to the best available data the capitalization of the entire commercial network is approximately $900,000,000. The cost to the government would be less than the appraised value, since it would be undesirable to purchase the real estate holdings of the companies.

"The 'real estate holdings' include, of course, the exchange buildings now in use and possibly their equipment as well, since to remove this and install it elsewhere would be almost the same as wrecking it and buying new equipment. And the cost of these buildings and their equipment aggregates many millions of dollars. For instance, the equipment alone of one 'branch' exchange of the Chicago company cost nearly $2,000,000.

"But if the government didn't buy these buildings where would it put its telephone exchanges? We must assume that Mr. Burleson's answer would be: 'In the postoffices, of course!' We must so assume, since they must be somewhere, and Mr. Burleson's exclusion of 'real estate holdings' implies that the government has buildings in which to house them. "How would Mr. Burleson get even one 'branch' telephone exchange into the Chicago federal building? Would he put it in tents on the roof? We cannot imagine where else, since the building is already full and overcrowded. And the situation is much the same in federal buildings in other cities.

"Then consider the situation in the thousands of towns where the government does not own buildings but rents quarters. These are usually ordinary store buildings, not fireproof, and hence not at all suitable for the costly switchboard and other equipment of a telephone exchange. Furthermore, most of them have no room to spare.

"Mr. Burleson's assumption that the government could materially lessen its necessary investment of $1,000,000,000 or so in buying in the telephone plants by not taking the 'real estate holdings' proves either that Mr. Burleson is grossly ignorant of the matter on which he essays to give the nation advice or else is a humorist indulging in ill-timed jests upon a most serious subject."

VARIED DIFFERENCE.

There is a varied difference between the figures of Prof. Adams, who holds his brief from the state tax commission, and the figures given out by the secretary of state, as to the cost of maintenance of the tax commission. Strange as it may seem, Prof. Adams gives out the figures, $28,000, while the secretary of state unwisely, perhaps, says that the cost is $137,955.50. This is a wonderful difference and it must be accounted for by the fact that perhaps Prof. Adams has his own ideas as to values and costs and factors which go up to make this cost.

It is interesting to see just what the modest professor emits from his list of expenses. For instance, the industrial commission, which is modestly put down at $17,850.

The Wausau Record-Herald has been at some pains to get at the expenses of this commission (or what ordinary state accounting computes as such), and the hired personnel. To quesser's total of $17,850.

"According to figures which we believe to be official, that commission uses the services of fifty-three persons, at an aggregate salary of $74,630. They are as follows: Three commissioners, one assistant, one secretary, ten factory inspectors (male), three factory inspectors (female), four statisticians, twelve members of the public employment bureau staff, one building inspector, one deputy (women and child labor), one bakery inspector, one chief examiner for workmen's compensation, one 'working fellow' of the university of Wisconsin, six stenographers and eight clerks."

Of course this is a hazy way of making the people feel that their precious commissions are costing them next to nothing and just look at the value to the state, as an advertisement at least of the Wisconsin Idea at a merely nominal figure.

Down in New York state they are howling because the per capita tax is $5.10, while out here in Wisconsin we pay $7.50. (What they need is a few articles like Prof. Adams' last appeal to the public, to show them they are not paying any taxes at all. Perhaps he could make them believe it.

Why worry any more because so many of the young women are exposing their wishbones to the weather. A New York doctor says that colds are caused by too much clothing.

In spite of the efforts of Julian Hawthorne, the Atlanta penitentiary is able to stand upon the record it made as a sanitarium in the case of Banker Morse.

"We shall drive out the crooks," declares Mayor Mitchell of New York, but don't drive them in this direction; the Atlantic ocean is close by.

A recent mirage showed New York upside down. It must have been about the time the theater crowds reached the cafes.

Anyhow, it is difficult to perceive what distinction Andrew Carnegie hoped to win over most of the rest of us by dying poor.

Radium seems to have fallen heir to the wealth of philanthropic press agency once owned by sea turtle serum.

While she is about it, why doesn't New York demand that the territory of its regional bank shall include Canada?

Leg muffs have appeared in Paris. That the revelations made by the split skirt are sometimes cruel is only too true.

Orville Wright having devised a stabilizer for the aeroplane, it is now up to somebody to invent one for the aviator.

In the state of New York, most of the newly built roads seem to lead straight to the penitentiary.

On the Spur of the Moment

The Early Spring Poet. A poet saw birds upon the wing And sallied forth to write a verse on spring.

He fared on till he found a dell so green Where he could sit and woo the mystic scene.

It was indeed a balm; sunlit day; All nature seemed to sweetly smile and say.

To him in tones not hard to understand That beautiful spring was really close at hand.

Still further did the mooning poet roam Until he was about nine miles from home.

When suddenly the sky was clouded A blizzard right from Texas on him bore.

The mercury fell forty-nine degrees Before the poet e'en had time to sneeze.

The balmy days had made the poet take His thick ones off and therefore he did shake.

And shiver in the raw untempered wind Which was of the old-fashioned winter kind.

In vain his friends awaited him. Alack, The gentle poet never did come back.

And find, within a week or so, They found him stiff and stark beneath the snow.

They solemnly and sadly bore him hence, The victim of a misplaced confidence.

Cruelty to Oysters. There is at present a crusade against the custom of eating live oysters out of the half shell. Oyster experts say that the majority of oysters are alive when swallowed and that they should be killed before being eaten.

This has caused a number of our readers to send inquiries concerning the best methods of killing oysters. Having made a careful study of the thing we are prepared to give a list of different ways in which live oysters may be killed while yet in the half shell, some of them being as follows:

Grasp the oyster tightly about the neck and jam a chloroform mask over his face. Hold it there until the oyster has inhaled enough of the drug to kill him. Be sure that the chloroform sponge is placed over the oyster's nose.

On which physicians scowl; But I should worry, I should fret. No towel microbe has stung me yet. I've used the public drinking cup. I've used it many years. Foolhardy it appears. And still I have no fears. I can announce in greatest glee, No cup microbe has e'er bit me.

I've surely kissed a lot of folks, And many have kissed me, But yet it's pleasant to see, The kissing microbe appears. Has in no way curtailed my years.

I've read a lot of microbe stuff, Of scientific bunk. I think it's most punk. The docs can rave all that they like, I don't believe in any mike.

Signs of the Times. Now the government is going to try to tie a tin can to the end of the Lillian Russell says too much kissing is dangerous. But how much is too much?

The Mexican envoy was given a fine greeting in Japan. It is reassuring to know that a Mexican is welcome somewhere.

Travelers are no longer allowed to carry whiskey in Texas. But there is no fun in being a sober man. An Atlantic line has made a rule that all dogs on board must be left with the ship's butcher. Sausage for breakfast.

Fame. You may pile up a fortune or win high official place; You may win in a prize fight, may drive first in a race; You may be an ambassador or fly an aeroplane; You may invent a new mousetrap or antidote a pain; You may hunt up the old south pole and place it on the map; Or you may save a hundred lives and risk your own, mayhap. But though you should do all of this, you'll not win fame, that's true, Till some one makes a bum cigar and names it after you.

What Troubled Him. A man was feeling depressed and run down and his doctor advised a trip to a rest cure. When the doctor made the patient good-by, he said: "Now, remember my instructions. Adhere to a strict diet, take plenty of exercise in the open air. Drink no intoxicants and smoke one cigar a day and one only."

In the course of two weeks the doctor got a letter from the patient which read as follows: "Dear Doc: I have been getting along pretty well. I am keeping to a strict diet and I take a little exercise in the fresh air every day. I haven't touched a drop of liquor since I have been here, but there is one thing that keeps me sick all the time. It's that blamed one cigar every day and I am finding it hard to follow your instructions in that regard. I never smoked a cigar before in my life."

STUDENT WAITERS ARE "LOCKED OUT"

Stewardess at Dormitories Refuses to Allow Students to Work Following Strike Trouble.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 3.—When the 120 student waiters reported for duty at the university commons Sunday noon they found themselves "locked out," as their spokesmen describe it. Some 500 boarders were obliged to go elsewhere for their Sunday meals.

Action against the waiters was taken by Mrs. A. H. Streator, stewardess, upon the direction of University Business Manager H. Bumpus, following consideration of the waiters' demands by the executive committee of the regents Saturday.

The waiters rose up in arms a week ago when twenty of their number were discharged. The authorities said there was too much help and expenses must be cut. The waiters asserted that the reduction meant an undue amount of work by those who remained, and also that they ought to have some voice in making any changes that affect their interests.

Upon their threat to strike, the authorities effected an armistice until the executive board of regents could consider it Saturday. Its decision, transmitter to the officers of the Wisconsin Student Waiters' Union, C. H. Gates president and Louis H. Bloch secretary, was that the policy would remain as in the past and the management would be vested in Business Manager Bumpus.

President Getts submitted the following reply Saturday: "The reply of the executive board should need no further interpretation. We have made plain our position and our intentions in this affair. The responsibility now devolves upon Dr. Bumpus to grant or reject our request for fair treatment and justice. Our demands have not been unreasonable and we shall not see fit to retract them."

The intimation of a general strike was contained in this message to the regents, but apparently such action, if intended Sunday, was forestalled by the business manager in closing the commons against waiters and boarders alike.

The action of the stewardess followed receipt of two letters from Dr. Bumpus, in the first of which he stated that economy and efficiency demanded the reduction of the force, and the second directing that she cease employing transient help (including students) and rely on the regular employees of the university. A large number of these are employed on full time in Bernhard, Chadbourne and Lathrop Halls. There are 350 regular dormitory boarders, and about 150 cafeteria diners.

The students held a mass meeting on the subject Sunday afternoon.

ILLINOIS FARMERS SEEK NEW FREIGHT TARIFFS THROUGH UTILITY BOARD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—Will Illinois' new public utilities commission in deciding grain freight rates continue to follow the interstate commerce commission as it did in its rulings on the giving of passes and transportation and the fixing of express rates? This was the question that today agitated farmers and grain shippers throughout Illinois when their representatives came here to plead before the state commission for the present freight tariffs as against a one-per-cent sliding increase.

Within the first month of its organization the commission adopted the letter the federal board's classification of persons who may be granted passes or transportation by carrier utilities and accepted the interstate commerce commission's schedule of express tariffs for shipments within the state.

What the railroad asked today was that the interstate commission's scale of grain rates be enforced for shipments within Illinois. The railroad began clamoring for the grain freight increase a year ago. From time to time decision was deferred by the old railroad and warehouse commission.

When the first hearing was given by the commission a postponement was allowed until today with the proviso that whatever today's decision the rates asked should not go into effect until February 23. The contention of the farmers is that the cost of carrying grain has not increased out of ratio to other freight carrying costs and that the additional burden proposed for grain shipments is unjust and discriminatory. They claim that while other states are proposing to increase the grain freight rates only 5 per cent, the Illinois carriers ask an increase of 16 2-3 per cent.

Our annual February clearing sale is now going on. T. P. BURNS.

The one picture that the critical will like better than the rest is "The Man From the West," two-reel Lubin, in which Mr. Romane Fielding plays the part of "The Gentleman."

Tomorrow's feature is the two-reel Edison comedy, "Deacon Billington's Downfall," and on Thursday we will have the Wally Van Lillian Walker comedy, "Cutey's Vacation."

Would you believe that the first "Kathlyn" picture has had a run of a thousand performances in Chicago? Impossible? Figure it out; during the first week there were eleven copies of the picture being shown in eleven theaters, running an average of five shows a day. Eleven copies, each shown five times a day for a week, makes three hundred eighty-five performances in one week. Then allowing for the copies that were sent out of the city after the first week the month has seen at least a thousand performances.

The contention of the farmers is that the cost of carrying grain has not increased out of ratio to other freight carrying costs and that the additional burden proposed for grain shipments is unjust and discriminatory. They claim that while other states are proposing to increase the grain freight rates only 5 per cent, the Illinois carriers ask an increase of 16 2-3 per cent.

Nestor players in "A TALE OF THE WEST," with Ramona Langley, Le Moran and Russell Basset. Crystal, a timely farce with Pearl White, "IT MAY COME TO THIS." "AS FATE WILLS," a remarkable drama of the far west, by the Frontier company.

ANIMATED WEEKLY. The Universal company's complete review of the current events of the week.

Lyric and Majestic Theaters Tonight's program includes six reels of Licensed photograph, running from ten to nineteen days old. The one picture that the critical will like better than the rest is "The Man From the West," two-reel Lubin, in which Mr. Romane Fielding plays the part of "The Gentleman."

Tomorrow's feature is the two-reel Edison comedy, "Deacon Billington's Downfall," and on Thursday we will have the Wally Van Lillian Walker comedy, "Cutey's Vacation."

Would you believe that the first "Kathlyn" picture has had a run of a thousand performances in Chicago? Impossible? Figure it out; during the first week there were eleven copies of the picture being shown in eleven theaters, running an average of five shows a day. Eleven copies, each shown five times a day for a week, makes three hundred eighty-five performances in one week. Then allowing for the copies that were sent out of the city after the first week the month has seen at least a thousand performances.

ILLINOIS FARMERS SEEK NEW FREIGHT TARIFFS THROUGH UTILITY BOARD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—Will Illinois' new public utilities commission in deciding grain freight rates continue to follow the interstate commerce commission as it did in its rulings on the giving of passes and transportation and the fixing of express rates? This was the question that today agitated farmers and grain shippers throughout Illinois when their representatives came here to plead before the state commission for the present freight tariffs as against a one-per-cent sliding increase.

Within the first month of its organization the commission adopted the letter the federal board's classification of persons who may be granted passes or transportation by carrier utilities and accepted the interstate commerce commission's schedule of express tariffs for shipments within the state.

What the railroad asked today was that the interstate commission's scale of grain rates be enforced for shipments within Illinois. The railroad began clamoring for the grain freight increase a year ago. From time to time decision was deferred by the old railroad and warehouse commission.

When the first hearing was given by the commission a postponement was allowed until today with the proviso that whatever today's decision the rates asked should not go into effect until February 23. The contention of the farmers is that the cost of carrying grain has not increased out of ratio to other freight carrying costs and that the additional burden proposed for grain shipments is unjust and discriminatory. They claim that

FAMOUS STREETS

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slwash."

Pennsylvania Avenue. Pennsylvania Avenue was invented by a Frenchman, Major L'Enfant, but has since come to be more American than any other street in the nation. It is not only the principal thoroughfare of Washington, D. C., but it is the principal way to fame, glory and political success. Half the politicians of this country dream at night of the day when they will march proudly up Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol of the United States and take a seat in Congress; while half the members of Congress dream of the day when they shall be hauled back over the same street between cheering thousands to the White House.

The famous part of Pennsylvania Avenue begins with magnificence at the Capitol and loops the loop from splendor to decay many times before it reaches the White House. It has massive, palatial hotels where the new Congressman's salary is taken charge of by the bell boy on his arrival and twenty-five-cent lodging houses. It has the 287-foot dome of the Capitol and the 300-foot tower of the postoffice and also a number of one-story buildings built after the Pat Flaherty style of hooded carrier architecture. Visitors are shown the gratings in the sidewalk through which the slaves got air when they were being held for market and also the handsomely furnished rooms in the Capitol where the slaves of Aldrich and Cannon were once confined. The patriots of the Union Army marched up Pennsylvania Avenue in 1865, and every four years since the patriots of the winning party have marched down the Avenue to the White House in a solid body armed with indorsements from their Congressmen.

ANSON BALDWIN DIES AT EVANSVILLE HOME

Succumbs Quietly at Eleven O'clock This Morning—Celebrated Golden Wedding Three Years Ago.

Evansville, Feb. 3.—Anson Baldwin passed away this morning from his home in this city at eleven o'clock, of old age. He was born in Canada July 11th, 1836, and came to Wisconsin when a boy.

In 1861 he was united in marriage to Miss Ella Sawin, who was born in Canada the same year as Mr. Baldwin.

ANSON BALDWIN.

Later Mr. Baldwin purchased a large farm near Brooklyn, Wis. in possession of this vast number of acres he became a very successful farmer. Twenty years ago he leased his farm and moved to Evansville, where he has since resided. Three years ago, November 28th, 1910, Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, both enjoying the best of health at that time.

Mr. Baldwin leaves, besides a loving wife, three sons, Zala of Madison, and William and J. Baldwin of this city; two daughters, Mrs. M. Cole and Mrs. Jeanne Hatfield, of this city also. Mr. Baldwin was the last of his father's family, his brothers and sisters passing away many years ago.

The funeral announcement will be made later, following the arrival of made later, following the arrival of Evansville, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Wm. Kiehnsmith and son Willie were Madison visitors the latter part of the week.

Louie Abts of Elroy was a week end visitor here.

Miss Helen Brunell of Madison spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brunell.

Over eighty numbers were sold to the dance held in the Porter band house last Friday night, all present reporting a splendid time.

Orrin Bishop is suffering from a broken arm experienced in a fall.

Mrs. Charles Norton of Brooklyn is visiting Mrs. George Keylock.

Miss Wright is reported quite ill, with Miss Jessie McMurray in attendance.

Mrs. M. Thompson of Brooklyn is spending a few days with local relatives.

Mrs. Mary Jones Newell was one of a family of six, three brothers and two sisters, who came from Wales when young with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Jones. The family settled in the town of Porter, which was their home until death. Mrs. Newell is the last of the family of six children, being about seventy-five years of age at the time of her death.

Several years after his death she was married to John Newell, who died about twenty years ago. For the past few years Mrs. Newell has made her home in Evansville. Although ill health has kept her to the house very closely, her death came Monday morning as a shock to her friends.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the house, Rev. D. Q. Grabbill of the Congregational church of this city officiating.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Remedy

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This plan makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.
Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually conquers an ordinary cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, spasmodic croup and bronchial asthma.
Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ¼ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.
Pinex is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in quinine and other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.
The prompt results from this mixture have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"NOW if I'd only gone into the newspaper business I feel as if I could have really done something worth while," a man said to me the other day.

"Don't you like your own business?" I asked. He is a rather successful cracker salesman.

"Oh, yes," he said, "well enough, but there's so little chance to get ahead in it. I feel sure I could have done something big if I had gone into the newspaper business. There's more chance for an ambitious man there."

Now had he spoken of some other business I might have been impressed and convinced, but the newspaper business—well, that's something that happens to know about. And ever since I had anything to do with newspapers I have had it dinned into my ears by newspaper men that there never was a business where the chances of making money were so small. Almost every newspaper man I know is sure he would have made plenty of money if he had only put his brains and energy into some other business.

Some other business—how alluring it always is! How simple it appears to learn; how large its advantages loom; and its disadvantages—well, we don't really believe it has any of course, and the other fellow says so, but then he's a pessimist anyway, and besides, he is probably trying to discourage us because he fears our competition.

Now is it merely the disgruntled failure who laments what might have been? Even the successful man often believes he could have been still more successful if only he had chosen some other business.

Now, of course, there are plenty of square pegs in round holes—pegs that would be efficient and useful if they were fitted into square holes. But on the other hand, any hole unless they were worked into the proper shape by education and training. And the man who thinks he is the first is quite often the last.

Your own business is the place to make good in. Choose it carefully with due attention to your talents and personal equipment, and then put the whole of yourself into it and you will probably do just as well as you would in some other business.

Of course, if at any time, after thorough investigation and, if possible, some tentative experiment, you become absolutely convinced that you are better fitted for some other line of work, it would be folly not to change. But remember that from the outside looking in one is likely to overestimate the advantages and opportunities and underestimate the difficulties and disadvantages. It is only when one gets the inside looking out—and quite often wishing one could get out—that one gets the whole of the picture.

Sometimes it seems sad to me that we cannot have half a dozen lives in which to find out if we couldn't do better at the other fellow's business. And then again I think it's unfortunate, for, after all, isn't pleasant to believe one could have done great things than to know one couldn't?

Household Hint

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

For the ironing board try a pad made of old newspapers under the ironing sheet. Stained table linen should be soaked in cold water until almost all traces of the stain are removed. It placed directly in the boiler the stain will set and it will be almost impossible to remove it later.

Let potatoes lie in cold water for a little before paring if you wish them to be white.

Flour browned in the oven should be kept on hand for thickening gravies. It insures a dark rich color.

BUST DEVELOPED ONE OUNCE A DAY

A New Simple Easy Home Method that Gives Quick And Permanent Success

Judge from my picture as to the truth of what I say. I have developed the crowning feminine attribute in a most beautiful proportion. Firmness and exquisite development. Then ask yourself how much you would like to have such a photograph of yourself, showing the glory of womanhood with its lines of infinite charm and grace. It would be worth far more than a two-cent stamp, would it not? Then let me give you my method—let me tell you what I have learned and let me give you recent pictures of myself to prove what I say—for if you will write me today

I Will Tell You How—FREE

I will tell you gladly and willingly. I should any woman perfect an opportunity to escape the pain and heartache of being skinny, scrawny, angular and unattractive in body? Misery is not our heritage. Nature planned that you—a woman—should have the rich, plump lines of woman, living flesh molded after the mother of us all, the description of whom our sacred literature with love and admiration for the divinity of woman's form. For why should there be that painful aspect—the face of a woman and the form of a man.

Write To Me Today

I don't care how tall, or fat, or undeveloped your bust now is—I want to tell you of a simple home method—I want to tell you how you can gain perfect development in one day. No physical culture—no massage, foolish baths or paste—no plasters, masks or poisonous injections—I want to tell you of an absolutely new method, never before offered or told about—insuring immediate success and permanent beauty.

Send No Money

Just write me a letter—address it to the personally—what's all. I will answer it by return mail—and you can develop your bust one ounce a day—you can be what you want to be. Believe me when I say that you will be blessed me through years of happiness for pointing the way to you and telling you what I know. Please send your letter today to the following address:

most of the fat removed. Wipe the chops and put in a hissing hot frying pan. Turn as soon as under surface is seared, and sear the other side. Turn often, using a knife and fork that the surface may not be pierced, as would be liable if the fork alone were used. Cook six minutes if liked well done. Let brown the outside fat. When half cooked sprinkle with salt. Drain on brown paper, put on a hot platter and spread with butter or serve with tomato or soured sauce.

Scallops and Tomato Salad.—Clean the scallops, parboil and drain. Add the juice of one lemon, cover and let stand one hour. Drain dry between towels, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in flour, egg and stale bread crumbs, fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper. Cool, cut in halves, marinate with dressing and serve garnished with sliced tomatoes and watercress.

Dressing.—Mix one teaspoonful of finely chopped shallot, three-fourths teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and four tablespoonfuls of olive oil.

Potato Fritters.—Two cups of hot rice potatoes, two tablespoonfuls of oil, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half cup of nutmeg, few grains of cayenne, three eggs, yolks of two eggs, one-half cup of flour. Add the cream, wine and seasonings to the potatoes; then add the eggs well beaten, having the bowl containing the mixture in a pan of ice water, and beat until cold. Add the flour and when well

EVERYDAY TALKS FOR EVERYDAY PEOPLE

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

No matter where one happens to be they cannot meet the successful and the unsuccessful looking individual. You cannot always tell the difference at first glance because there are so many causes that are legitimate that keep a man or woman from success—as the world looks at the conception of the word.

You enter a car, sit down, and in the seat in front is a clean cut progressive looking man who, as far as you can tell, is talking his plans, stamped plain upon him. He is talking earnestly to his seat partner who cannot hear but hear his conversation; to be candid you make an effort to hear it. It is as you thought—it is of his work he is talking; his plans that he intends carrying to completion in the near future. He is a good conversationalist, well dressed, faultlessly groomed and as you happen to know him you are sure of the fact that he looks his part—a successful man.

In the seat across the aisle sits a man of the same age yet, as far as looks go, I fear most of us would not bestow the time on him that we did on the first mentioned man. You see he isn't well dressed he lacks that look of careful grooming and while he too is talking to his seat partner concerning his work he seems to lack the ability to attract and hold our attention.

Yet knowing him also, you unhesitatingly say that he is every bit as successful as the man across the aisle. How can that be? Well, when the car stops at a certain corner and he gets off, walks two blocks and enters a house, the place where he enters his home, the place where he is King, the place where he is very, very necessary to the woman and growing band of children who call him husband and father.

His health ability and progress are vital questions there. His doing are important and his entire life is linked by the strongest bond this world knows to the ones who greet him at the close of each day of toil.

Is he a success? He is a man that works for the man who sits across the aisle from him on the return trip from work each eve; his hands are calloused, his clothes show plainly that he works in some shop; his face is not strictly clean, yet across it is written plain the character that will make him and his kind respected through this land of ours—wherever he may chance to be.

He is one of our country's real successes. He is raising a family paying for a home, on his own efforts, to a great extent the future of the little children that turn to him so lovingly, so expectantly, as he opens the door of his home.

You see there are successes in every path of life! To do one duty as one finds it no matter where in life one path may lie is being a success is it not. And now—are you a success?

SERVING THE OYSTER.

The common way of serving the oyster is, in a stew, and often a very different dish it is, too, for an oyster stew to be palatable must be carefully made and well seasoned. An oyster cocktail or oysters on the half shell are the favorite first course of the dinner menu of most men.

Oyster Cocktail.—This is one of the best ways of serving this dish. Mix a tablespoonful of tomato catsup, half a teaspoonful of vinegar or lemon juice, two drops of tabasco sauce and salt to taste. Serve in cocktail glasses or in halves of green peppers placed in a bed of ice. The oysters from six to eight on the half shell.

Roasted Oysters.—These are delicious when the oysters, fresh, well-flavored oysters may be procured. Buy the oysters in the shell, scrub them and place in a dripping pan and cook in a hot oven until the shells open. Season and serve in the deep halves of the shells.

Broiled Oysters.—Clean and dry the oysters in a towel. Lift with a fork by the tough muscle, and dip in melted butter, then in cracker crumbs which have been well seasoned. Place in a buttered wire broiler and broil over a clear fire until the juices flow, turning while broiling. Serve with parsley or lemon butter.

Oysters in a block of ice is a favorite way of serving for a dinner. Melt a hollow in a block of ice with hot irons, put in the oysters, place the ice on a platter covered with a napkin and garnish with parsley and lemon.

Escalloped oysters are always liked. Prepare them with but two layers of the oyster or the center layers will not be cooked and will spoil the whole dish.

Women Worth While

Mrs. Joseph E. Davies.

THE most interesting women before she made her debut attended official life in Washington during the present season, are, naturally enough, those who are newcomers at the capital. At the beginning of President Wilson's administration, society turned a curious eye upon these newcomers, and their personalities, their interests, and their entertainments are still matters of absorbing interest to other women.

Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, wife of the commissioner of corporations, is one of the most popular women whom the new administration has brought to Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Davies were guests at the Wilson cottage at Seagirt, N. J., on the day that Gov. Wilson was formally notified of his nomination for the presidency by the Democratic party. Mrs. Davies is a close friend of Mrs. Margaret Wilson, who visited her for three weeks at her home in Wisconsin last year, and frequently drops in for an informal cup of tea with her in Washington. A common interest in philanthropic matters, and love of music, are bonds of friendship between two women.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Davies was Miss Knight, daughter of a Civil war veteran, Colonel John H. Knight, of Bayfield, Wisconsin. She was educated in private schools, and

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am eighteen years old and have a very small bust. What can I do to enlarge it?

(2) I am an amateur actress and would like to join a company. I have been keeping company with several young men and I have met hundreds of men, but I have never met one I could love. Do you think I ever will, and do you think there is a boy in this world for every girl? With love.

EDNA.

(1) Deep breathing will do more to enlarge your bust than anything else. Gentle massage with cocoa butter will do no harm.

(2) You could go to a large city and try to get interviews with some of the stage managers. It is rather difficult to do, as stage managers are overrun with young women who want to be actresses. It is no easy job to be an actress. The salary for beginners is small. You must furnish your own clothes and, if you go on the road, pay your own hotel bills. It is hard work all the time, and you are constantly thrown among associations that are not good for a young girl.

(3) Yes, my dear, there is a boy for every girl. At the present moment, there are about 2,000,000 more men than women in the United States, and through the whole world about 10,000,000 more men than women. Three boy babies are born every girl baby. Some day you'll find the right man.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a blonde and considered pretty by everyone who knows me. I am sixteen and going with a young man two years my senior. He says he is greatly in love with me and every time he comes to see me he stays until about ten o'clock. Do you think I should have some little refreshments?

(2) I have a girl chum who is in love with the same boy and is very jealous of me. Every time I am with him and pass her she speaks so coldly. How can I overcome her jealousy and yet keep the company of this young man?

(3) What kind of a dress is nice for a party in the winter, to go with a white beaver hat? PERPLEXED.

(1) Occasionally you might have a little lemonade or cup of tea, and cookies or cake. But he probably brings candy scattered about, and if you eat it together you will need no other refreshments.

(2) Simply be nice to both of them and do not notice the girl's coldness.

(3) Any soft white woolen goods would be pretty. Any delicate shade that is becoming to you might be worn and would be pretty trimmed with white fur or marabout.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you please tell me how I can reduce my weight, as my height is 5 feet 3 inches and I weigh 187 pounds. I would like to reduce 50 pounds. (2) My husband is very thin. What must he do to gain flesh, as he is 5 feet 3 inches and only weighs 145 pounds? SWEET DREAMS.

(1) Exercise and eating less ought to reduce your weight. Stop eating all sugary, starchy foods. Eat lean meats, dry or toasted bread, acid fruits and vegetables, and always stop short of what you think is enough. Exercise yourself into a good sweat, then rub down with alcohol and be sure not to catch cold.

Perhaps you are too young for her. Usually a girl of twenty likes to go with a man a few years older than herself. And then—some girls

ECZEMA ITCHED TERRIBLY ON HANDS

White Little Spots. Scratching Made Them Worse. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

1261 Marion Place, Chicago, Ill. — "I had eczema for four or five years. One day I came into the house and saw some white little spots coming out on my hands. A week later I saw that the spots began opening and in their places came deep holes. Later I took the form of some red little spots. Those spots itched me terribly and every night when I was asleep I always used to scratch and make the spots worse and made some new spots. The trouble caused loss of sleep. My hands cost my father a fortune. "I used remedies for three and one-half years but they made me worse. I used — which helped a little bit, but in a day or two it got worse; also — Later on I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment two times a day. In the morning and at night before going to sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment afforded relief in one or two weeks, and it only took two months before the cure was complete." (Signed) Clement Levinson, Nov. 22, 1912.

Although the Cuticura Soap and Ointment are most successful in the treatment of affections of the skin, scalp, hair and hands, they are also most valuable for everyday use in the toilet, bath and nursery, because they protect and maintain the health of the skin and hair from infancy to age. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free with 32-p. Skn. Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

CLINTON

Clinton, February 2. — The "go to church" campaign made by the churches Saturday bore good results. All the churches were well attended, good music and good sermons. A great many were surprised to find how easy it was to get out to services in the morning by simply trying.

Several ladies were out tagging the men Saturday with white stringed tags reading: "I am going to church Sunday, February 1st, are you?"

John Westphal of Sharon was here Saturday on business and greeting his numerous old friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Emaline C. Hatch and Mrs. E. B. Kizer went to Chicago Saturday to attend grand opera.

Dr. Buckmaster of Janesville was here Friday in consultation with Dr. Thomas relative to the condition of J. E. Corning.

Miss Edith Reader celebrated her 6th birthday Saturday by inviting fifty-two of her little friends to her home at 2:30 p. m. and after the party her mother, accompanied by Miss Hall took them to the Gem Theater. After the show they played games at the theater and each child was presented with a cute little box of candy and a nice apple. It was a success in every way and greatly enjoyed by the little guests.

Lewis Jensen and Lewis Nelson are here from the state university for a few days.

Mrs. R. Conley is nursing Mrs. Helen Crosby, who has been very ill, but is improving.

Mrs. M. B. Inman has been afflicted with the mumps.

Norma Mary Scott is not in good health again, suffering from a severe cold.

Foster Winegar has returned from the university, having finished his course there.

WHEN YOU'RE SICK YOUR WAGES STOP

You know what that means—misery—worry—big bills—debt.

You know you can't afford to get sick. Keeping in good health means food and clothing for you and your family. It is up to you to take care of yourself. It is up to you, whenever you don't feel right, to take something to make you right, to strengthen you, to build you up, ward off worse sickness—protect you and your family. That's what we have in REXALL OIL OIL EMULSION. In offering it to you we protect you against money loss by positively promising you this, if it does not restore your health, we will give back your money without word or question. We believe it is the best builder of health, energy and strength you can get. It is helping many of your neighbors. If it don't help you, we will give back your money.

Rexall Oil Oil Emulsion is composed principally of pure Olive Oil and the Hypophosphites. Each has long been endorsed by successful physicians. Here they are for the first time combined. The result is a remarkable nerve, blood and strength-building remedy that is both food and medicine. For all who are nervous, rundown and debilitated—no matter what the cause; for old people; for weaklings; for puny children, we know of nothing that will give health and strength as quickly as REXALL OIL OIL EMULSION. It is a real builder of good blood, strong muscles, good digestion. Pleasant to take, it contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. If you don't feel well, economize both money and strength by beginning today to take REXALL OIL OIL EMULSION. Sold only at the Rexall Stores, and in this town only at W. S. ### MAKES SUGGESTIONS FIGURING REPORTS

INCOME ASSESSOR FRANK TAYLOR WRITES FOR THE GAZETTE.

FEATURES EXPLAINED

Will Be Material Aid to Persons Who Have Received Blanks to File Under the Law.

Income Assessor Frank Taylor has written the following list of suggestions and explanations for persons who have to figure out their income assessment blanks, and as they are valuable to those who have had trouble it is suggested they be read carefully. Mr. Taylor will later write a second article on the changes in the laws on this important question.

Valuable Helps in Making Income Tax Returns.

The return must be made to the assessor of incomes, whether you have received the income or not, on or before the date given on the blank form accompanying these instructions. If no return is received on or before the date designated, an assessment will be made by the assessor of incomes and the taxpayer renders himself liable to the penalties provided in section 1037m-12.3.

Date of making return. If a return is made after the date designated, it is not properly signed and in the hands of the income assessor by March 1, 1914, assessment will be made without further notice.

Separate forms have been prepared as enumerated below. If you need a different form write to the assessor of incomes. All corporations should make their returns to the Wisconsin tax commission directly on form No. 4. The forms are:

Form No. 1. Individuals.

Form No. 2. Guardians, trustees, executors, administrators, agents, receivers (with special instructions).

Form No. 3. Firms and copartnerships.

Form No. 4. Corporations.

Form No. 11. Farmers, dairymen, etc.

Form No. 21. Wage earners, salaried men and other individuals whose principal income is derived from personal services.

Income received by the wife and each child under eighteen years of age residing with the taxpayer as members of his family must be separately stated on the return.

Articles taken from the stock of grocers and other merchants for family consumption must be accounted for as income, inasmuch as the cost thereof is deducted under the head of expenses of the business.

Exemptions. An individual is entitled to an exemption of $800; husband and wife $1,200; for each child under eighteen years of age $200; for each additional person "actually" supported by the taxpayer dependent upon the taxpayer for his support. This does not exempt children over eighteen years of age in normal health although supported by the parents at home, at school or elsewhere.

Profits from purchase and sale of real estate, stocks, bonds and capital assets should be returned in answer to the question, "What is the net income?" and should be reported as property, was acquired before the income tax took effect, January 1, 1911. "Only such proportion shall be taxable as the time between January 1, 1911, and the date of sale bears to the entire time between the date of acquisition and the date of sale." If any deduction is claimed on this account, accompany the return an explanatory statement specifying the character of the property, date of purchase, amount paid, date of sale and the amount received.

"Profits" here represent the excess of the selling price over the total cost of buying and holding the property including interest actually paid (but not estimated or constructive interest), and other necessary expenses of holding and carrying the property. Provided such expenses have not already been deducted in the income tax returns for 1911 and 1912, or are not elsewhere deducted in the present return.

Wages. This deduction is limited by law to "payments made within the year for wages of employees and a reasonable allowance for services of copartners or members of a firm actually rendered in conducting the business." No deduction is allowed for wages paid to household servants or to the wife or minor children of a taxpayer or to the taxpayer himself.

Depreciation of property is deductible only if the property was purchased after January 1, 1913, is not repairs and cannot be deducted. Depreciation which took place before January 1, 1913, was properly covered by depreciation charged off in previous years, and cannot be used to justify excessive repairs in 1913.

Depreciation. The law limits this deduction to a reasonable allowance for depreciation by use, and the loss of the property from which the income is derived, and in the case of mines and quarries an allowance for depletion of ores and other natural deposits on the basis of their actual original cost in cash or the equivalent of cash. Mere fluctuation in the value of stocks, bonds and other property cannot be deducted as depreciation.

Losses, depreciation and miscellaneous expenses cannot be considered unless fully explained as called for in the return.

Taxes. Income taxes paid in 1913 may be deducted if separately stated on the blank. This deduction should cover only the cash paid, not including the personal tax offset.

Insurance. Insurance premiums actually paid during the year on property from which taxable income is derived, may be deducted, but amounts paid for life, sickness or accident insurance are not deductible.

Personal property. Personal property tax receipts, together with similar receipts for personal property taxes paid by members of the family whose incomes are included in the assessment, count as cash in the payment of the income tax, but this offset is taken care of at the time of payment and not during the assessment season.

Farmers: (a) The value of farm products consumed by the family must be included as gross income. (b) Money spent for new fences, new buildings and other permanent improvements which increase the value of the farm cannot be deducted as expenses. (c) The cost of fattening cattle may not be specially deducted in computing the profit when such cattle are sold. Such costs are taken care of properly when the costs of feed and seed, hired labor, etc., are deducted. (d) Share rent may not be deducted. Full allowance is made for share rent. The cost of raising the produce (wages and other cash expenditures) are deducted. (e) Estimated losses—such as failure to realize expected profits through change in market prices, etc.—cannot be deducted. Full allowance is made on this account when the costs of labor, etc., are deducted. (f) Doctors, lawyers and professional men will report their fees or earnings when they are received. Merchants, manufacturers and business men generally will report sales on account or for credit as gross income for the year when the sales are made.

Bookkeeping. The purpose of the law is to ascertain the taxable net income. Any method of bookkeeping which fairly attests this result is acceptable.

Within the next few days changes in the law as made by the 1913 legislature will be published.

Dist. No. 4.

What is Woman's Beauty but Health

And the Basis of Her Health and Vigor Lies in the Careful Regulation of the Bowels.

If woman's beauty depended upon cosmetics, every woman would be a picture of loveliness, but beauty lies deeper than that. It lies in health. In the majority of cases the basis of health, and the cause of sickness, can be traced to the action of the bowels. The headaches, the lassitude, the sallow skin and the listless eyes are usually due to constipation. So many things that women do habitually conduce to this trouble. They do not eat carefully, they eat indigestible foods because the foods are served daintily and they do not exercise enough. But whatever the particular cause may be it is important that the condition should be corrected.

An ideal remedy for women, and one especially suited to their delicate requirements, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of women endorse highly, among them Mrs. C. S. Vance, of 511 S. Ray St., New Castle, Pa. At times she had spells of indigestion so severe that she thought she would die. Syrup Pepsin regulated her stomach and bowels, and she attributes her excellent health today to this remedy.

All the family can use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, for thousands of mothers give it to babies and children. It is also admirably suited to the requirements of elderly people, in fact to all who by reason of age or infirmity cannot stand harsh salts, cathartics, pills or purgatives. These should always be avoided, for at best their effect is only for that day, while a genuine remedy like Syrup Pepsin acts buildily but permanently.

It can be conveniently obtained at any drug store at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded. You will find it gentle in action, pleasant in taste, and free from gripping and its tonic properties have a distinct value to women. It is the most widely used laxative in America today and thousands of families are now never without it.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

The Magic Power of Publicity

The Wisconsin Daily League will draw the dollars because its 18 papers visit every day 85,000 homes, or to nearly half a million population. If you'd sit down to write to half a million people, or to call by telephone 85,000 homes, it would take you a life-time, to say nothing about the terrific expense, the wear and tear on your health, etc.

The Wisconsin Daily League for a minimum of expenditure, which is better called an investment, will take your message into 85,000 homes and talk to nearly half a million Wisconsin people every day—tomorrow, if you wish, without trouble, and pull the dollars for any legitimate offering.

Mother Stanislaus Tells of Recovery

Throat Troubles, like continued coughs and colds, often seriously affect the lungs. If you have not found any improvement from the treatment you have tried, investigate the many reports showing benefits, and in numerous cases, complete recoveries, brought about by the use of Eckman's Alternative. This is a medicine for Throat and Lung Troubles, favorably known for more than fifteen years. Read this case:

"Content of St. Anne, Sanford, Fla. 'I am a mother of four children, and for several years I have been suffering from severe throat and lung troubles. I have tried many remedies, but have not found any improvement. I have heard of Eckman's Alternative, and I determined as a last resort to try it. After taking four or five bottles, large pieces of diseased tissue came away. I continued the Alternative, to my grateful relief, and in ten months I was restored to perfect health. I would be glad to write or talk to any person who may have a doubt about it. I would like them to see and hear from my own lips, if they so desire, all I would say of it. I am, I believe, a good example of Eckman's Alternative, more on request." Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe throat and lung affections. Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stomach and in upbuilding the system. Contains no narcotics, poisons, or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratories, Philadelphia, for free delivery. For sale by all leading druggists and Smith Drug Co., McCune & Buss, Peoples Drug Co., in Jamestown.

Broadway Jones

From the Play of George M. Cohan

BY EDWARD BAKERHILL

With Photographs from Actors in the Play

Copyright, 1913, by G. W. Edgington Company

He looked at them, frowned, shook his head and bit his lip, very much astonished, very much annoyed. "It's the Empire, all right," he was forced to admit. But before he had a chance to read the letters, Sam came in, tramping like a little elephant, threw back his massive head, half closed his eyes and roared:

"Mr. Pembroke—and Mr. Leary—to—see—Mr. Jones."

"Tell them to come right in," said Broadway. His neck thrust this way and that—two thrusts in honor of big business.

"Well, watch the little professor over there. He nodded toward Broadway. Then, to the man of whom he had been speaking, "Sit at that desk and look business-like."

"In that chair," asked Broadway with determination. "Not after what he said! And then he sat there, and he died. No, I'll die standing up."

"Shall I go?" asked Josie.

"No, please don't."

Then Pembroke entered, trailed by a tall person, young in years, old in expression, and bearing in his hand coldly, disapprovingly. He was very cautious.

"I'm satisfied, if you are," Broadway answered. "Sit down, judge."

"Very well, Mr. Jones," said Pembroke gravely. "Mr. Jones, I am not in the habit of doing business through hirelings." He cast a scornful glance at Wallace, who smiled sweetly in return.

"Your Mr. Wilson, your secretary as he represents himself to be, and whose impertinence, by the way, is beyond description, has had the audacity to state that I should have to do business through him or not at all."

"Those were my instructions," Jackson answered, never wavering.

"I should like to understand the reason for so unusual an arrangement."

"Well," said Jackson, "you want to buy something that I own. He's the salesman, that's all. He's paused, wondering at his own great brilliance. "John Wanamaker owns a store, but he doesn't wait on the customers, does he?"

This was unanswerable. It dumfounded Pembroke; it delighted all the other hearers, saving only the two secretaries, who were bent above their tasks with nervous diligence.

Broadway himself laughed outright. "How was that?" he asked Wallace in a whisper.

"You're immense, on the square," said Wallace, with intense appreciation.

Pembroke was not thus impressed. He was offended. He was evidently ready for offence from any quarter. "You are flippant, sir," he said with a grave scorn. "You gave me your word that the deal would be consummated at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. The price was settled and agreed upon by both of us."

Jackson sat in silence, regarding him with an innocent, unwavering attention which very greatly disconcerted him.

"I returned by appointment to your New York apartment, with my lawmen and papers ready to sign, and upon inquiring from an insolent butler as to your whereabouts I received the information that you were on your way to Egypt."

"Good old Rankin!" muttered Broadway, and decided, then and there, to raise his butler's wages once more.

"He said the only word that you had left for me was a profane request that I go to—er—well, we'll not repeat it."

"I'll make that raise a twenty, not a ten," Broadway reflected.

"Believing you to be a man of integrity," Pembroke went on, "unfortunately for me I had no witnesses present at our closing of the bargain."

Broadway continued to smile expansively.

"Still," said Pembroke, "I ask you, as man to man, is your word worth less?"

Broadway looked at him with an intensity of gaze which required three stretchings of the neck to bring about.

"When I'm doing business with unscrupulous people, yes," he answered.

Pembroke, shuddering, turned to his stenographer. "Have you got that, John?" And John nodded.

"Got that, Henry?" Broadway demanded of his man. And Henry nodded.

Then Broadway walked the floor, keeping the astonished Pembroke fixed with a glittering eye. That careful, able, very modern business person was rather notably surprised by the young man. Somehow he seemed to have developed since the hour, so short a time before, when first he had encountered him in New York city.

"When I fell for your rush football business methods yesterday and agreed to sell," said Broadway, his voice assuming an extraordinary sing-song, to his friends unusual, to himself astonishing, to Pembroke disconcerting, and, in later years, a celebrated thing, "I was not aware of the low, contemptible tricks to which your company had stooped in order to put my poor old uncle out of business."

His voice thrilled with feeling when he used those touching words "my poor old uncle." His "poor old uncle" would have been emphatically surprised had he been there to hear that thrill.

"I didn't know it was the result of the business blows you'd dealt him that sent him to his grave." (I am endeavoring, by means of hypnosis, to indicate the lingering, scathing emphasis which Broadway, this day saturated in the soul of oratory, was giving now to certain words.) "I didn't know it was the purpose of the concern with which I was dealing to throw out of work hundreds of men that owed to that thing I was selling their very means of livelihood, food for their babies, education for their growing sons and daughters."

Even Wallace looked at him amazed. The tremor, the emphasis, the feeling which Broadway was putting into this extraordinary line of talk to the trust agent were all new and beautiful to him.

"Lots of things I didn't know yesterday, Mr. Pembroke," said the young man in conclusion, "but I've found them out since then, and that is why I've broken my word."

Pembroke's impassiveness was ruffled; there was not the slightest doubt of that.

On Josie's face there was a look of admiration which was balm to Broadway's soul; the judge had listened with a mouth continually opening wider; Wallace was frankly triumphant.

"You didn't think that I could talk that way, did you?" asked Broadway of his adversary. Then, to Wallace: "How was it?"

"Great!" said Jackson. "It was wonderful! I never knew it was in me." He was completely satisfied with Broadway Jones. He whirled again on Pembroke. "Go on, say something else."

But Pembroke kept a stony silence. "Tell you what I'll do," cried Broadway, "I'll talk you for a thousand dollars a side."

Pembroke scorned this proposition. Plainly he was not a sport. "Then I am to understand the price is—"

"The salesman will state the price. I'm the owner."

"I don't consider any commercial trade-mark worth a million and a half of dollars," Pembroke said with emphasis.

"Neither do I," said Wallace cheerfully.

"Still," said Pembroke slowly and coldly, "even in business we sometimes desire to satisfy our pride. It has always been the ambition of our company to control this output. For ten years we have tried to absorb it into the Consolidated without success. I have communicated with my people in Ohio, and while we feel and know the price to be highly exorbitant, we have decided to take it over. I am prepared to buy."

"Well, we are not prepared to sell," said Wallace slowly and emphatically. "What! I've agreed to your own terms!"

"I heard everything you said."

"I don't quite gather your meaning."

"No; and you're not going to gather our chewing-gum either. We're not going to sell. We're going to fight. You haven't a tottering old man to deal with now, but a young man—full of fire and fight, of energy and ambition! Look!"

Bob himself knew this to have been a fine fight. He pointed with a gesture full of drama at Broadway, who did the best he could to meet the situation with an attitude which might have broken Pembroke's gravity had he been less absorbed and incensed.

"We have an article which, on its own merits, has stood up under almost impossible competition," Wallace continued in a tone of triumph. "We have the goods to deliver, and we're going to fight and beat you at your own game. We're going to make you take your own medicine, Mr. Pembroke. We're going to make you compete with us. We're going to advertise as no article was ever advertised before. We're going to post and plaster from one end of the country to the other. We're going to show you under, that's what we're going to do, and we're in a position to do it."

Broadway was as proud of Wallace as he had been of himself. "What do you think of that?" he asked the startled Pembroke.

Pembroke smiled. He had a well trained face. He also was an egotist, both for himself and for his company. "We spend a million dollars annually in advertising, Mr. Wilson."

"No," you don't," said Wallace promptly. "I know what you spend better than you do yourself. And my name is not 'Mr. Wilson,' and I'm not Mr. Jones' secretary." He pulled a card out of his pocket. "Here's my name and here's my business."

Pembroke took the card, looked at it, and was really affected. As far as he was capable of showing real uneasiness he showed it then.

"You mean the Empire Advertising company is behind this business?"

The Empire Advertising company, it must be remembered, was the largest in the world.

Wallace had not thought of that. He had not meant to say the Empire was actually behind Jones' Pepsin gum. But now that Pembroke had suggested it, it seemed to him to be a good idea, and, without taking into consideration the important fact that his father, not himself, was president of the Empire Advertising company, he took the plunge.

"That's just what I mean, and we're going to do five times as much advertising as you ever did, and at one-tenth the cost."

"Then my people do no more business with the Empire."

"All right," Wallace positively sneered, "then let's see how much outdoor advertising you get this side of the Rocky mountains."

Pembroke rose. He was not happy, but he did his level best to hide his worry.

He was one of those fresh young men, given to the use of stale slang.

At the breakfast table, desiring the milk he exclaimed:

"Chase the cow down this way, please."

"Here, Jane," said the boarding house mistress, "take the cow down to where the calf is bawling."

Once upon a time a man called upon his physician and asked him for medical advice.

"Take a tonic and dismiss from your mind all that tends to worry you," said the physician.

Several months afterward the patient received a bill from the physician asking him to remit ten dollars and answered it thus:

"Dear doctor—I have taken your tonic and advice. Your bill tends to worry me, so I dismiss it from my mind."

Moral—Advice sometimes defeats its giver.

A woman was complaining to her dairymaid about the quality of her milk.

"Short o' grass feed, mum," said the milkman. "Bless you, these cows o' mine are just as sorry about it as I am. I often stands and watches 'em cryin'. You don't believe it?"

"Oh, yes, I believe it," said the customer dryly, "but I wish in future you'd see that they don't drop their tears into the milk."

He was one of those fresh young men, given to the use of stale slang.

At the breakfast table, desiring the milk he exclaimed:

"Chase the cow down this way, please."

If Our Grandmothers Had Only Known MUSTEROLE!

How they would have welcomed it. For they knew the blessed relief that the old-fashioned mustard plaster gave for colds, aches and pains.

But they had to take the blister and the burn with the plaster.

You can get mustard's wonderful effect, without the plaster and without the blister.

MUSTEROLE does it. It is a clean, hospital size for $2.50.

Accept no substitute. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 25c or 50c to the MUSTEROLE Company, Cleveland, Ohio, and we will mail you a jar, postage prepaid.

"Musterole is much better in every respect than the mustard plaster of the mustard plaster. I shall now keep it on hand for ready use at any time."

Don't spread MUSTEROLE on a cloth. Don't bind it on with a piece of flannel.

Sabotage. A reader asks this center of enlightenment to explain the meaning of the word "sabotage." Did your mother ever cut your hair? That's the apotheosis of sabotage.

Stick to Old Custom. In many Dutch kitchens the kettle still is hung on a crane above the open fireplace, not for artistic reasons, but because the housewife never has tried any other way.
